Dancers Working Hard!

We sent our roving reporter / photographer, Dan Ashbaugh (one of the stars from 2008 DWS) out to check up on our contestants and see how they're doing. As you might imagine, they are sweating it out (like they ought to be) as the contest deadline approaches.

→Here's who he found:

Chris Otto and his dancer Theresa Borak have logged a LOT of dance time, practicing since November on their Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers style dance.

Dan says it's lookin' good. We will say that Chris has a, shall we say dogged look of concentration on his face in the photos Dan snapped!

A little birdie told us that Andrew Munoz may have one strong-minded woman on his hands with his star Nancy Haboush Their Lindy Hop is going to be amazing, though they have possibly had a few "artistic differences of opinion" as the photo below may suggest.

Elvis Has Left the Building

Well, not exactly! Kim Carter and her star Mike Guerriero are channeling "the king" in a big way with their jive to Jail House Rock. In a TTT exclusive we've learned this sexy little number is going to bare something. Hmm?

Bustin' some serious moves!

Why Vote Early and Often?

Over the years, thousands of us have enjoyed the Nutcracker as part of our holiday festivities.

Now think for a moment what this gorgeous ballet would be like if there was no sleigh for Clara and her Nutcracker prince to ride in, no shimmering organza tutus for the snowflakes, no toe shoes for the ballerinas, no magical Christmas tree, and alas, no toys from Dresselmeyer for the children at the party. You get the idea. It would be bleak—an empty, boring production.

The dollars you spend for your favorite dance team go directly to keeping Canyon Concert Ballet alive and stocked with the things they need to produce stunning performances.

Think of it this way: more votes mean more shoes for little feet, which in turn means more proud parents and grandparents.

The arts play a vital role in our Fort Collins community reflecting the soul of those of us who live here.

We hope you'll be generous with your votes, and join in the fun with us. In 2008, we set the bar at $30,000. Now it's up to you to help us break our own record. Are you up to it? All those little feet are counting on YOU!

Tantalizing Tidbits

What “man about town” has been seen at the CCB studios plugged in to his iPod practicing by himself. Could it be G.H.?

Apparently the costume shop “Life of the Party” has seen a lot of traffic from the DWS folks. Looking for leg warmers Chris M.? Can't wait!

And our emcees Jane and Bill have also darkened the doors of Life of the Party. Oh, and get this: somewhere in town there is a woman missing a pair of yellow bell bottom pants. About the size that would fit Bill

West. Jane is donning a moustache and Bill is in bell bottoms. Ya don't wanna miss this one folks. The blackmail possibilities boggle the mind.

There's been a “whole latte shaking” going on at Salsa Latte with Fred and Carolina.

That's it for now...
